Earth, Wind, Fire, WATER: Powering Your County's Future
Hosted by MACo's Environmental Health Affiliate

Water plays a remarkable role in advancing our state's progress in renewable energy generation. The "big fans" of offshore wind certainly know this well. Interestingly, renewable energy options can also help keep the Bay clean, in return. Over the past three years, the State of Maryland has funded nearly $5 million dollars to encourage technology that provides alternative strategies for managing animal manure on Maryland farms. Animal Waste-to-Energy specific technologies generate energy from animal manure - and keep that, um,...stuff...out of the Chesapeake Bay.

Join renewable energy experts for this exploration into the interplay between water and clean energy generation.

X Marks the Spot - A Treasure Trove of Stormwater Solutions
Hosted by MACo's Engineers Affiliate

Counties are facing extremely challenging stormwater treatment goals, whether through the Chesapeake Bay Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) or a Municipal Separate Storm Sewer System (MS4) permit. As technologies, best management practices, and funding sources have matured, counties have more options than ever to address their water quality targets. Panelists will explore different best management practices and financing options that will generate positive water quality results, maximize the use of available funding, and assist in public education and messaging.

Calibrating the Compass: GIS in a Next Gen 9-1-1 World Hosted by MACo’s Information Technology and Emergency Managers Affiliates
Most 911 centers determine a mobile caller’s location based on technology that was adopted two decades ago...before cellphones were equipped with GPS. Next Generation 9-1-1 (NG911) will deliver more accurate location data—similarly to how apps like Uber can pinpoint your exact location—which will allow calls to be routed to the correct jurisdictions faster, potentially saving lives. NG911 will rely on Geographic Information Systems (GIS) for call routing, call handling, call delivery, location validation, and emergency response. At this session, county leaders will discuss best practices for assessing, planning, and developing maintenance routines to keep GIS data NG911 compliant.

Like a Bridge Over Troubled Water: Know Your Water Law
Hosted by MACo’s Attorneys Affiliate
Maryland counties are rich with water, both in terms of waterfront access and in sustainable water and wastewater infrastructure. Counties benefit from this — but along with these assets come great responsibilities and risks. Conflicts that arise over responsibilities for water-related assets cannot often be shrugged off as “water under the bridge,” but require proactive planning and protection. In this session, learn how counties depend upon the law to protect water-related assets, keep their water clean, and interplay with various federal and state laws. As an added bonus, attendees will finally find out what “riparian rights” actually are.

Putting Our Best Food Forward: A Sea of Possibilities
Hosted by Maryland’s Procurement Officers
Maryland counties purchase billions of dollars of food each year for hospitals, jails, schools, senior programs, cafeterias, and other county-owned or-operated facilities. Hear from panelists who have leveraged this purchasing power to promote food that aligns with their counties' values of health, local economic vitality, and sustainability. Panelists will share concrete, cost-effective strategies to develop and implement food procurement practices that improve health outcomes for residents while supporting our state’s agriculture (and water!) system.

Turn the Tide with Demographics: 2020 Census & the Senior Boom
Hosted by MACo’s Aging Affiliate
The population of "Boomers" is booming. Between 2015 and 2030, it is estimated that Maryland's senior population will increase by 40% from 1.2 million to 1.7 million individuals. What's a state to do? Prepare! The 2020 U.S. Census will play a key role in counting the population and collecting the information that shapes the state's demographics. Census information is vital for local governments as they strategically plan to meet the needs of their diverse communities, address shifting demographics, and provide essential support and services to targeted populations such as seniors and their caregivers. In this session, learn about how key stakeholders are working to take stock of Maryland's population and plan to address their needs in the future and beyond.

Chalking the Next Course for the Bay TMDL
Hosted by MACo’s Administrators Affiliate
The journey of the Chesapeake Bay Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) is entering its third and final phase for reaching water pollution reduction goals for nitrogen, phosphorus, and sediment by 2025. With a new Bay Model and new Watershed Implementation Plans (WIPs) come revised state loads and incorporation of issues, such as accounting for growth, climate change, and the Conowingo Dam. Panelists will discuss the current and future path of the Bay TMDL and how it will affect both Maryland and its counties.

Good to the Last Drop: Keeping Your Water Clean
Hosted by MACo’s Environmental Health and Health Officers Affiliates
What do pharmaceuticals/drugs, lead, and human waste have in common? They all can—and unfortunately sometimes do—end up in our water systems! Public water systems are monitored for nearly 80 substances that are damaging to your health. Thankfully, whether it is through intricate county waste water treatment systems, regulations on home septic systems, or even simple education and outreach to residents, local governments have teams of professionals dedicated to keeping your water clean of pollutants and safe to consume or use. In this session, learn how local governments are working hard to protect your health and welfare by keeping your water clean of harmful toxins and contaminants and what you can do to help.

Smart Growth Next: How Do We Grow From Here?
Hosted by MACo’s Planning & Land Use Affiliate
With Smart Growth turning 20 years old and a new State Development Plan—"A Better Maryland"—being drafted, now is the ideal time to consider the future of Smart Growth in Maryland. Panelists will reflect on the past successes and failures of Smart Growth, offer suggestions on modernizing the Smart Growth visions and policies, and provide an update on the status and elements of the State Development Plan.
2:15 PM - 3:15 PM | AFFILIATE SESSIONS

Rising Tides of Rural Health
Hosted by MACo’s Health Officers Affiliate

Of Maryland’s 24 counties, 18 are considered rural and cover a population of over 1.6 million. These rural counties (and rural areas of urban counties) have unique challenges and vulnerable populations with needs that can be vastly different than those seen in their more urban counterparts. There are exciting, emerging opportunities to transform the framework for rural health care through new partnerships, innovative funding methods, and inventive means of delivering services. In this session, learn more about the future of rural health in Maryland.

Green Is the New Black
Hosted by MACo’s Corrections and Public Safety Affiliate

Local jails operate numerous programs where inmates can receive training along with marketable skills that are geared toward improving the ecology, quality, and beauty of the state’s waterways and surrounding communities. Rain gardening and landscaping, water retention pond maintenance, and oyster habitat restoration are just a few of the programs that connect environmental protection and job training. In this session, learn more about how these programs are a success for the individual inmates as well as the communities that benefit from their newly acquired skills.

Surviving the Stormwater Surge: MS4 Permit Update
Hosted by MACo’s Engineers Affiliate

As Maryland moves forward with new Municipal Separate Storm Sewer System (MS4) permits for both Phase I and Phase II jurisdictions, county governments continue to struggle with meeting the worthy environmental goals the permits embody while acknowledging fiscal and practical realities. Panelists will provide a comprehensive update of the status of the MS4 process and key issues, including permit expectations, nutrient credit trading, and consent decrees.

Conduit Street Podcast LIVE!
Hosted by MACo’s Administrators Affiliate

MACo’s official podcast is coming to Summer Conference! In this session, MACo team members Kevin Kinnally and Michael Sanderson will be joined by special guests for a live recording of MACo’s Conduit Street Podcast. In addition to the opportunity to participate in the podcast, attendees will learn about the benefits of podcasting, and explore the principles of podcasting - such as launching a show, audio editing, equipment, interview skills, and staying sustainable.

Navigating Murky Waters: Predicting Unpredictable Revenue Streams
Hosted by MACo’s Budget & Finance Affiliate

Reliably estimating revenues is hard enough during any time - it’s always a guessing game, albeit an educated one. But now, accurately estimating county revenues spot-on would be like walking on water. Recovery from the Great Recession is slow-moving, income tax revenues are particularly volatile as baby boomers retire and the work force dwindles, and with federal tax reform, no one knows how taxpayers will actually file. What’s a legislator, county official, or budget officer to do? Find out how county finance officers are navigating these uncharted waters in this panel focusing on ways and means.

3:15 PM - 4:15 PM | GOVERNOR’S CABINET RECEPTION

Join Members of the Governor’s Cabinet, fellow attendees, and exhibitors and sponsors for this casual reception. Network with all stakeholders in local government and meet the leaders of the State departments.

Active Shooter Response Training
Active shooter situations are unpredictable and evolve quickly. While an active shooter scenario may unfold in various locations, public and government settings are particular targets. These terrifying events are often over within 10 to 15 minutes, so individuals must be prepared both mentally and physically to survive the situation before law enforcement arrives. In this deep-dive session, a public safety expert will share the best way to prepare for the worst-case scenario with take-away lessons in safety for all attendees.

10:15 AM - 11:15 AM | GENERAL SESSION
Angling for Educational Excellence: Kirwan 2.0
The [Kirwan] Commission on Innovation and Excellence in Education was formed in 2016 to answer two questions: Should the state revise current education funding formulas? And what major new education policies must be enacted to put Maryland public schools on par with the best in the world? The Commission released preliminary policy recommendations earlier this year, and has recently sharpened its focus on education formulas — including the pattern and role of county funding. Spending formulas, systematic accountability, and resource equity are all hot topics. How will the Kirwan Commission’s recommendations affect county governments? This session focuses on education funding and accountability, and how to best ensure that Maryland students receive a fair, equitable, and high-quality education.
