County governments are always looking for new ways to deliver efficient and effective services to their constituents. In 2009, the MACo Corporate Partner Program was established to provide a forum for companies and organizations to market themselves to county decision-makers. Through the exchange of ideas and information, lasting partnerships have been formed.

County Financial Management

A challenge faced by new and veteran county officials is understanding and using the government budget process, the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report, and other financial documents effectively as tools for setting priorities and managing the government while maintaining the fiscal integrity of the jurisdiction. Fiscal management can be infused with economic assumptions, technical jargon, and a process that seems foreign to the uninitiated. In this class, a veteran public administrator will discuss the budget process and financial reporting, and give practical tips for county officials. All may attend—Academy Fellows will earn certificate credit for participating.

Speaker:

AFFILIATE SESSIONS

Breaking Cycles and Building Bonds...from Behind Bars

Hosted by MACo's Corrections Affiliate

Parental incarceration puts families in a tumultuous situation. These families are at high risk for experiencing domestic, economic, educational, and behavioral instability. But being behind bars doesn't have to sever family bonds or perpetuate the criminal justice cycle. By tapping into community-based resources and an inmate's love for their child, local jails teach skills to help parents and their kids cope with incarceration and life outside the walls. In this session, learn more about innovative and award-winning programs that strive to break the cycle, keep families united, and ultimately create stability within the household and community.

Speakers:

- Sharon M. Tyler, Program Manager, Dept. Of Corrections, Baltimore County
- Jane Sachs, Director of Correctional Training, MD Dept. of Public Safety & Corr. Svcs.
- Florence Kennedy-Stack, Director, Turning Pages Family Literacy Program

Local parks and recreation services offer countless value to our residents and counties. Along with offering numerous leisure amenities, parks and recreation departments can also provide measurable health benefits, from providing direct contact with nature and a cleaner environment, to opportunities for physical activity and social interaction. Furthermore, by removing physical, financial, transportation, and awareness barriers, local parks and recreation departments ensure everyone has access to programs designed to promote community-building and personal well-being. In this session, learn about innovative programs and services being offered by local parks and recreation.

Fighting Fire with Fiber? Connecting to Next Gen 9-1-1

Chesapeake G

Hosted by MACo's Emergency Management & IT Directors Affiliates

Sponsored by SecuLore Solutions

As 20th century technologies phase out, counties must reinvent their emergency call systems. One key issue that must be addressed is how to fill the void of legacy systems that are no longer supported—through building costly and complicated fiber optic and wireless services to replace them. While the technology to implement Next Generation 9-1-1 is available now, there are many issues that local governments must work through relating to technology standards, the process of transition, governance, and funding. In this session, panelists will highlight local progress, identify gaps, and offer ideas on how to best move forward with building a statewide Next Generation 9-1-1 network.

Speakers:

- Richard K. Brooks III, Director, Department of Emergency Services, Cecil County
- Steve Souder, Director, Fairfax County 9-1-1
- Christopher Merdon, Chief Operating Officer, NTT Data
- William Ferretti, Director, 9-1-1 ECC, Montgomery County

Moderator: The Honorable Cheryl Kagan, MD State Senate

BATer Up! Understanding the BAT Septic System Issue

Chesapeake F

Hosted by MACo's Environmental Health Affiliate

In 2012, the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) adopted regulations mandating the use of BAT (Best Available nitrogen removal Technology) septic systems outside of a critical area. The mandate prompted concerns from MACo and numerous other stakeholders about effectiveness and cost. In response to those concerns, Governor Hogan and MDE have proposed regulations to repeal the BAT mandate. Panelists will provide an overview of the regulations, the science and policy issues related to BAT septic systems, and key stakeholder perspectives.

Speakers:

- Lynn Buhl, Director of Water Management, MD Department of the Environment
- Shannon Moore, Manager, Office of Sustainability & Environmental Resources, Frederick County
- Kevin Koepenick, Geohydrologist, Baltimore County E.P.S.

We all know it: our fundamental infrastructure needs a lift. Join MACo in advocating for a #LIFT4MD to strengthen our roads, bridges, water mains, wastewater systems, and public structures. It's one of the few points which can draw consensus from both sides of the aisle, from both public and private sectors, and from all levels of government. The questions remain on how to fund this investment, how to stretch our limited resources wisely, how to leverage this opportunity to best stimulate our economy, and how to target the greatest of our many needs. In this session, experts will discuss the challenges involved and how we might begin to answer these questions and more about our local infrastructure funding options.

Winter Is Coming: Fortify Your Shelters for Frosty Weather A Chesapeake E Hosted by MACo's Aging, Emergency Management Directors, and Human Services Affiliates

While resources for sheltering have been stretched thin in recent years, through strengthening partnerships and improving data sharing, local jurisdictions are working diligently to provide shelter to the homeless throughout the year. Sheltering those experiencing homelessness during the coldest months can be the most challenging. Committed county partnerships, resource sharing and tracking as well as consistent data collection throughout the season enhance the level of quality provided to those seeking shelter year-round and particularly during the coldest months. In this session learn about state wide data available on this topic. Also learn how to assess your local partnerships, resources, and data to strengthen the sheltering provided by your local community to meet the needs of your most vulnerable neighbors.

Cannabis in the Workplace: Clearing the Haze C Chesapeake C Hosted by MACo's Human Resources Affiliate

After years of working to establish drug-free workplaces, employers now face the possibility of legal drug users within their organizations. As long as it remains illegal under federal law, many employers remain committed to their drug-free policies and intend to continue testing applicants and employees for cannabis. Other employers may decide to modify their current policies based on changes in state law. With the numerous legal and policy considerations swirling around medical cannabis, employers and workers alike are seeking clarification. In this session, representatives from the public and private sectors will discuss the many liability and logistical issues due to the changing landscape of state medical cannabis laws, including the potential for accommodation requests and wrongful termination claims. Attend this session to hear more about what to expect in the near future and the best practices to protect your workplace and employees.

The New Wild, Wild West? Energy and Open Space

Chesapeake G

Hosted by MACo's Planners Affiliate

For decades, Maryland has preempted local land use and environmental requirements for the siting of large baseline powerplants. These facilities are critical to the energy grid and were somewhat limited in their locations due to infrastructure and siting requirements. However, a new generation of energy facilities (such as solar, wind, gasification, or small incinerators) can be placed almost anywhere—with little or no additional infrastructure. Out of concern for the impact of these new types of facilities on agriculture and open space, MACo has proposed removing the preemption for these kinds of “dispersed” facilities as part of its 2017 Legislative Initiatives. Panelists will provide an overview of the issue, county concerns, and stakeholder perspectives.

Speakers:

- Adam W. Stratton, MREM, Project Origination Manager, Algonquin Power
- Andrew Gohn, Eastern Region Director, American Wind Energy Association

Budgeting for Bust or Boom

Chesapeake F

Hosted by MACo's Budget & Finance Officers Affiliate

As our counties bounce back from the Great Recession more resilient than ever, it becomes especially important to plan and save now to protect against whatever may come next. With furloughs and freezes behind us for the time being, our present reality of stagnant property tax revenues and sluggish income growth leaves us in a different position than we were in ten years ago—and prudence warrants budgeting accordingly. Learn about how some of our counties' financial experts are incorporating sound financial management practices to shore up reserves, budget conservatively, and prep for whatever rain tomorrow may bring.

Hosted by MACo's Engineers Affiliate

With a massive amount of our infrastructure situated waterside, Maryland's communities bear significant responsibility to respond against the challenges of a changing climate and coastline. With increased awareness of these kind of applications, counties will be better equipped to meet their environmental program goals. During this session, participants will learn about training, data, and tools to help guide green infrastructure projects and grant resources to address short- and long-term coastal hazards, such as coastal flooding, storm surge, and sea level rise.

Ethics

Officials should be knowledgeable of their public ethics ordinance, as generally required by state law. Many officials fill out the necessary forms and assume that they have complied with the law. But are their day-to-day actions living up to the intent of the law? There is often a fine line between legal and ethical behavior, and this class illustrates the differences through real-life scenarios and small group discussions. This course is open to all conference registrants - Fellows in the Academy will earn certificate credit for participating.
